

Actus Secunda.

Enter the Princeesse of France, with three attending Ladies, and three Lords.

Boyet. Now Madam summon vp your dearest spirits, Consider who the King your father sends: To whom he sends, and what's his Embassie. Your selfe, held precious in the worlds esteeme, To parlee with the sole inheritour Of all perfections that a man may owe, Matchlesse Nauarre, the plea of no lesse weight. Then Aquitaine, a Dowrie for a Queene. Be now as prodigall of all deare grace, As Nature was in making Graces deare, When she did starue the generall world beside, And prodigally gaue them all to you.

Queen. Good L. Boyet, my beauty though but mean, Needs not the painted flourish of your praise: Beauty is bought by iudgement of the eye, Not vttred by base tale of chapmens tongues: I am lesse proud to heare you tell my worth, Then you much willing to be counted wise, In spending your wit in the praise of mine, But now to taske the tasker, good Boyet,

Prin. You are not ignorant all-telling fame Doth noyse abroad Nauarre hath made a vow, Till painefull studie shall out-weare three yeares, No woman may approach his silent Court: Therefore to's seemeth it a needfull course, Before we enter his forbidden gates, To know his pleasure, and in that behalfe Bold of your worthinesse, we single you, As our best mouing faire soliciter: Tell him the daughter of the King of France, On serious businesse crauing quicke dispatch, Importunes personall conference with his grace. Hastie, signifie so much while we attend, Like humble visag'd suters his high will.

Boy. Proud of imployment, willingly I goe. Exit.
Prin. All pride is willing pride, and yours is so: Who are the Votaries my louing Lords, that are vow-fellows with this vertuous Duke?

Lor. Longauill is one.

Prin. Know you the man?

1. Lady. I know him Madame at a marriage feast, Betweene L. Perigott and the beautilous heire Of Iaques Fanconbridge solemnized. In Normandie saw I this Longauill, A man of soueraigne parts he is esteem'd: Well fitted in Arts, glorious in Armes: Nothing becomes him ill that he would well. The onely soyle of his faire vertues glosse, If vertues glosse will staine with any soile, Is a sharp wit match'd with too blunt a Will: Whose edge hath power to cut whose will still wills, It should none spare that come within his power.

Prin. Some merry mocking Lord belike, is't so?

Lad. 1. They say so most, that most his humors know.

Prin. Such short liu'd wits do wither as they grow. Who are the rest?

2. Lad. The yong Dumaine, a well accomplisht youth,

Of all that Vertue loue, for Vertue loued. Most power to doe most harme, least knowing ill: For he hath wit to make an ill shape good, And shape to win grace though she had no wit, I saw him at the Duke Alanfors once, And much too little of that good I saw, Is my report to his great worthinesse.

Rossa. Another of these Students at that time, Was there with him, as I haue heard a truth. Berowne they call him, but a merrier man, Within the limit of becomming mirth, I neuer spent an houres talke withall. His eye begets occasion for his wit, For euery object that the one doth catch, The other turnes to a mirth-mouing iest. Which his faire tongue (conceits expositor) Deliueis in such apt and gracious words, That aged cares play treuant at his tales, And yonger hearings are quite rauished. So sweet and voluble is his discourse.

Prin. God blesse my Ladies, are they all in loue? That euery one her owne hath garnished, With such bedecking ornaments of praise.

Ma. Heere comes Boyet.

Enter Boyet.

Prin. Now, what admittance Lord?

Boyet. Nauarre had notice of your faire approach, And he and his competitors in oath, Were all addrest to meete you gentle Lady Before I came: Marrie thus much I haue learnt, He rather meanes to lodge you in the field, Like one that comes heere to besiege his Court, Then seeke a dispensation for his oath: To let you enter his vnpeopled house:

Enter Nauarre, Longauill, Dumaine, and Berowne.

Heere comes Nauarre.

Nau. Faire Princeesse, welcom to the Court of Nauarre.
Prin. Faire I giue you backe againe, and welcomel haue not yet: the rooffe of this Court is too high to be yours, and welcome to the wide fields, too base to be mine.

Nau. You shall be welcome Madame to my Court.

Prin. I will be welcome then, Condukt me thither.

Nau. Heare me deare Lady, I haue sworne an oath.

Prin. Our Lady helpe my Lord, he'll be forsworne.

Nau. Not for the world faire Madame, by my will.

Prin. Why, will shall breake it will, and nothing els.

Nau. Your Ladiship is ignorant what it is.

Prin. Were my Lord so, his ignorance were wise,

Where now his knowledge must proue ignorance.

I heare your grace hath sworne out Housekeeping:

'Tis deadly sinne to keepe that oath my Lord,

And sinne to breake it:

But pardon me, I am too sodaine bold,

To teach a Teacher ill becometh me.

Vouchsafe to read the purpose of my comming,

And sodainly resolu me in my suite.

Nau. Madame, I will, if sodainly I may.

Prin. You will the sooner that I were away,

For you'll proue perur'd if you make me stay.

Berowne. Did not I dance with you in Brabant once?

Rossa. Did not I dance with you in Brabant once?

Ber. 1

Ber. I know you did.

Rossa. How needlesse was it then to ask the question?

Ber. You must not be so quicke.

Rossa. 'Tis long of you y'spur me with such questions.

Ber. Your wit's too hot, it speeds too fast, 'twill tire.

Rossa. Not till it leaue the Rider in the mire.

Ber. What time a day?

Rossa. The howre that fooles should aske.

Ber. Now faire befall your maske.

Rossa. Faire fall the face it couers.

Ber. And send you many louers.

Rossa. Amen, so you be none.

Ber. Nay then will I be gone.

Kin. Madame, your father heere doth intimate,

The payment of a hundred thousand Crownes,

Being but th'one halfe, of an intire summe,

Disburd by my father in his warres.

But say that he, or we, as neither haue

Recei'd that summe; yet there remanes vnpaid

A hundred thousand more: in surety of the which,

One part of Aquitaine is bound to vs,

Although not valued to the moneys worth.

If then the King your father will restore

But that one halfe which is vnstatisfied,

We will giue vp our right in Aquitaine,

And hold faire friendship with his Maiestie:

But that it seemes he little purposeth,

For here he doth demand to haue repaie,

An hundred thousand Crownes, and not demands

One payment of a hundred thousand Crownes,

To haue his title liue in Aquitaine.

Which we much rather had depart withall,

And haue the money by our father lent,

Then Aquitaine, so guelded as it is.

Deare Princeesse, were not his requests so farre

From reasons yeelding, your faire selfe should make

A yeelding gainst some reason in my brest,

And goe well satisfied to France againe.

Prin. You doe the King my Father too much wrong,

And wrong the reputation of your name,

In so vnseeming to confesse receiue

Of that which hath so faithfully beene paid.

Kin. I doe protest I neuer heard of it,

And if you proue it, Ile repay it backe,

Or yeeld vp Aquitaine.

Prin. We arrest your word:

Boyet, you can produce acquittances

For such a summe, from speciall Officers,

Of Charles his Father.

Kin. Satisfie me so.

Boyet. So please your Grace, the packet is not come

Where that and other specialties are bound,

To morrow you shall haue a sight of them.

Kin. It shall suffice me; at which enterview,

All liberrall reason would I yeeld vnto:

Meane time, receiue such welcome at my hand,

As Honour, without breach of Honour may

Make tender of, to thy true worthinesse.

You may not come faire Princeesse in my gates,

But heere without you shall be so recei'd,

As you shall deeme your selfe lodg'd in my heart,

Though so deni'd farther harbour in my house: and

Your owne good thoughts excuse me; and farewell,

To morrow we shall visit you againe.

Prin. Sweet health & faire desires comfort your grace.
